

NANCY T. WEINTRAUB, MD

VA Greater Los Angeles Healthcare System
Sepulveda & West Los Angeles Division
Geriatric, Research, Education, Clinical Ctr.
Staff Physician

UCLA
David Geffen School of Medicine
Division of Geriatrics
Associate Clinical Professor

Primary Research Interests:

- Developing models to teach geriatrics to primary care residents
- Developing curriculum to teach geriatrics fellows

Primary Research Methodologies:

- Measurement

Primary Teaching Activities:

- Director of teaching program in Geriatrics for residents and fellows at VA Sepulveda
- Member of Fellowship Education Committee
- Director of Medical Student Electives in Geriatrics at Sepulveda VA
- Writing supervisor of UCLA Geriatrics fellows during their Medical Education module

Recent Publications:

- Oh E, Weintraub N and Dhanani S. Can we prevent aspiration pneumonia in the nursing home? JAMDA. In press.
- Reuben DB, Lee M, Davis JW, Eslami MS, Osterweil DG, Melchiorre S, Weintraub NT. Development and validation of a geriatrics knowledge test for primary care residents. J Gen Intern Medicine. 1997;12:450-452.
- Reuben DB, Hirsch SH, Frank JC, Maly RC, Schlesinger MS, Weintraub NT, Yancey S. The Prevention of Elderly Persons (PEP) Program: A model of municipal and academic partnership to meet the needs of older persons for preventive services. J Amer Geriatrics Society. 1996, 44:1394-1398.

Clinical Work:

- Geriatrics Clinic, VA Sepulveda
- Supervision of residents Medicine Primary Care clinic, VA Sepulveda
- Supervision of residents, NPs, nurses and fellows in the nursing home and on home-based primary care, VA Sepulveda

Community or Volunteer Service Relevant to Aging:

- Teaching about aging to 2nd graders at Crossroads School, Santa Monica